SIR,

I have the honor to state that it is desirable to make a complete collection as far as possible of samples of current coins of all countries of the world. This will be useful for the Commercial School, Bangalore, for the Comptroller's Office, for the Association of Accountants and Auditors and for other purposes. I have already collected some information regarding the approximate cost of the whole collection which will be about Rs.1,500/-. I request that you will be so good as to obtain orders of Government sanctioning the purchase and for including the necessary provision under State Huzur Treasury in the next year's budget.

SIR,

Adverting to your letter No. Fl.5640/G.F.194-15-2 dated 29th April 1916 enquiring how the collection of the current coins of the world would prove useful, I have the honor to state that - i. the Comptroller's office arranges for payments, on behalf of Government, in almost all the important countries of the world and has to acquaint itself with the currency of these countries and their exchange value. Such knowledge is now had by reference to exchange tables and other books on Currency and Exchange, but an actual knowledge with the coins will be a decided advantage.

ii. the curricula of studies for the pupils of the Commercial schools in the State require that they should have a knowledge of the currency and exchange of the various countries in the world.

In both these cases an idea of the currency and exchange will be better gained by having an opportunity of seeing the coins in a concrete form than by a study of books. The relative value of each country's currency can be better remembered by actually handling the coins and thus being enabled to fix in mind the difference between each as regards size and thickness of the coins and their metallic value. They have the same use educationally as maps, models, and chests serve in other fields of knowledge.
